NORRIS CUTS LOOSE FROM REPUBLICAN PARTY, STATEMENT

(By United Press)

Lincoln, Neb., May 8.—Senator George W. Norris, practically cut loose from the republican party today when he announced in a letter released here that he would not attempt to get friends to vote a straight ticket and wished to "abolish party responsibility and in its stead establish personal responsibility."

Norris' letter climaxed the hot fight in the republican state convention last week that closed with a hedged endorsement of Norris on the same platform on which President Coolidge was raised.

The letter, written to C. A. Sorenson, his primary campaign manager here, announced Norris' intention to cut loose from the regular republicans and refused to campaign the state in favor of a straight ticket.

NEW IMMIGRATION TREATY BETWEEN U. S. AND JAPAN

NEGOTIATIONS TO BE OPENED IN WASHINGTON AND TOKIO

SUPPORTERS OF JAPANESE EXCLUSION MAY OPPOSE SAME

(By United Press)

Washington, May 8.—Negotiations will be opened here and in Tokio for a new immigration treaty between the United States and Japan, as soon as both the senate and house have formally approved President Coolidge's compromise plan on the Japanese immigration question and the president has signed the bill.

Although Senator Reed, Pennsylvania, who was in charge of the immigration bill in the senate and Representative Longworth, republican leader in the house, predicted the conference report embodying the Coolidge compromise will be adopted by both houses in a few days.

It is expected there will be bitter opposition from supporters of Japanese exclusion.

Nine months will be allowed—under the proposed extension of the effective date for Japanese exclusion to March 1, 1925—for the negotiation of a treaty and its approval by the senate.

The eleventh hour decision of the conferees to extend the time to this date came with dramatic suddenness after President Coolidge had called congressional leaders to the White House.

Both American officials and Japanese diplomats believe the nine months now provided will be sufficient time to work out a treaty. The principal question is believed to be whether the approval of the senate to the treaty can be secured in time, and this is understood to have been the reason for the longer period proposed in the president's original plan.

REPRESENTATIVE SABATH MAKES CHARGES IN HOUSE

Washington, May 8. — Charging that President Coolidge used the immigration bill as a "political football," Representative Sabath, Illinois democrat, today announced a determination to fight adoption of the conference report on the bill in the house tomorrow.

Sabath declared "politics was played all throughout the conference on the bill." He refused to stay in the conference report. He will demand in the house the reason for the sudden change of front of house conferees some of whom announced on Tuesday that they had no intention of granting the postponement of Japanese exclusion as asked for by President Coolidge, and on Wednesday agreed to postponement after talking with the president.

The change in their attitude is another evidence that politics was played, Sabath charged. He today was preparing a statement embodying his charges of politics which he intends to give out later.

The fire department and police gun squads were called by terror stricken citizens nearby. Police could find no one who saw the perpetrators of the spectacular demonstration.

More than a hundred girls with babies who are housed by the institution were frightened. Sisters were almost hysterical. On the ground in the neighborhood were found thousands of yellow placards bearing the inscription in large black type:

Mrs. Booth had gone to seek solitude on the island to prepare an address for the forthcoming international prison conference.

Absorbed in her work, she did not notice when the tide went out leaving her boat high and dry. She hoisted a red light and went to a little cottage to spend the night.

Government agents sighting the light thought it was signal to rum runners, and surrounded the cottage with drawn revolvers.

Both Mrs. Booth and the agents were relieved when mutual identifications were exchanged and she was able to leave the island.

FANATIC WITH BIBLE IN HAND, GUN IN OTHER

PETER GASTON SHOT AND KILLED IN BATTLE WITH POLICE

THE KANSAS CITY AUTHORITIES THINK HE WAS FROM MICHIGAN

(By United Press)

Kansas City, Mo., May 8.—Peter Gaston, who walked into the lobby of the Federal hotel here today with a bible in one hand and a revolver in the other, was shot and killed in a battle with police 15 minutes later.

Authorities believe he was a religious fanatic. Papers found in his pocket indicated he was from Pierpont, Michigan.

Passengers at the union station were astonished when the doors of the car of a train arriving from the north opened and Gaston, dressed in high leather boots, corduroy trousers and wide brimmed cowboy hat alighted. He had a cocked revolver in one hand, finger on the trigger. In the other hand he carried a Bible.

He hurriedly left the station and walked to the business district of the city into the hotel. He registered, changing his revolver to his left hand as he penned his name. He placed the Bible on a cigar stand, then turned on the guests in the lobby and calmly asked:

"All of you believe in God?"

The guests mumbled a reply.

Bellboys dashed for the elevator. The clerk ducked behind a counter and called police.

"All of you put your left hand on the Bible and your right hand on your heart," the fanatic continued.

As four men placed their hands on the Bible, Gaston turned to one and demanded where his girl was that he had stole from him a year ago in the North Hotel.

"I will go get her," the guest replied, anxious for an opportunity to escape.

At this time Fleischer, clad in a bathrobe and carrying a revolver, appeared on the stairway.

Simultaneously a policeman stopped in front of the hotel. Noticing the patrolman's uniform, Gaston opened fire at him. Fleischer started shooting from the rear and killed the fanatic instantly.

ALL MINERS IN INDUSTRIAL BASIN IDLE

SITUATION THREATENS PROSPECTS OF REPARATION SETTLEMENT

OPERATORS TOOK INITIATIVE AND LOCKED OUT THE MEN

(By United Press)

Berlin, May 8—The strike and lockout in the Ruhr was effective throughout practically the entire industrial basin, according to reports here, and threatened prospects of a reparations settlement if it continues.

Practically all mines were idle today, reports said.

Although the initiative was taken by the operators who locked out thousands of men who declined to accept an eight-hour day for underground work, communist miners immediately countered by declaring a general strike in the Ruhr. Their funds are short and their resistance to pressure by the industrialists weakened accordingly.

Some Germans profess to see Russian influence in the communist strike, harking back to the incident at the Trade delegation headquarters in Berlin when a Russian prisoner was taken by police.

There are also reports that many miners are becoming ugly. Miners in Silesia and Saxony are reported considering sympathy strikes. Mining is tied up from Hamm to Duisberg.

NEW GASOLINE PRICE WAR LOOMS

INDEPENDENT OIL COMPANIES FIGHT FARMER CO-OP. STATIONS

(By United Press)

St. Paul, May 8.—A new gasoline price war reached large proportions today when independent oil companies began meeting the price of farmers' co-operative filling stations.

In Owatonna, Faribault, Webster, Dennison and Kenyon, gasoline is selling for 18c a gallon, according to information reaching farm bureau headquarters here.

It has been selling for 21.8 cents.

Farmers in a large number of southern Minnesota communities have begun buying gasoline in large lots and handling it co-operatively.

Twenty counties are already organized or are in the process of organization. The co-operative stations are selling to all comers at the same price and making a small profit, it was said.

Independent oil companies are meeting the prices in most communities, according to information here, but officers of the various oil companies in the Twin Cities declined to discuss the situation. They apparently feared publicity would cause the price war to spread.

Kansas City, Mo., May 8.—Peter Gaston, who walked into the lobby of the Federal hotel here today with a bible in one hand and a revolver in the other, was shot and killed in a battle with police 15 minutes later.

Authorities believe he was a religious fanatic. Papers found in his pocket indicated he was from Pierpont, Michigan.

Passengers at the union station were astonished when the doors of the car of a train arriving from the north opened and Gaston, dressed in high leather boots, corduroy trousers and wide brimmed cowboy hat alighted. He had a cocked revolver in one hand, finger on the trigger. In the other hand he carried a Bible.

He hurriedly left the station and walked to the business district of the city into the hotel. He registered, changing his revolver to his left hand as he penned his name. He placed the Bible on a cigar stand, then turned on the guests in the lobby and calmly asked:

"All of you believe in God?"

The guests mumbled a reply.

Bellboys dashed for the elevator. The clerk ducked behind a counter and called police.

"All of you put your left hand on the Bible and your right hand on your heart," the fanatic continued.

As four men placed their hands on the Bible, Gaston turned to one and demanded where his girl was that he had stole from him a year ago in the North Hotel.

"I will go get her," the guest replied, anxious for an opportunity to escape.

At this time Fleischer, clad in a bathrobe and carrying a revolver, appeared on the stairway.

Simultaneously a policeman stopped in front of the hotel. Noticing the patrolman's uniform, Gaston opened fire at him. Fleischer started shooting from the rear and killed the fanatic instantly.

ALL MINERS IN INDUSTRIAL BASIN IDLE

SITUATION THREATENS PROSPECTS OF REPARATION SETTLEMENT

OPERATORS TOOK INITIATIVE AND LOCKED OUT THE MEN

(By United Press)

Berlin, May 8—The strike and lockout in the Ruhr was effective throughout practically the entire industrial basin, according to reports here, and threatened prospects of a reparations settlement if it continues.

Practically all mines were idle today, reports said.

Although the initiative was taken by the operators who locked out thousands of men who declined to accept an eight-hour day for underground work, communist miners immediately countered by declaring a general strike in the Ruhr. Their funds are short and their resistance to pressure by the industrialists weakened accordingly.

Some Germans profess to see Russian influence in the communist strike, harking back to the incident at the Trade delegation headquarters in Berlin when a Russian prisoner was taken by police.

There are also reports that many miners are becoming ugly. Miners in Silesia and Saxony are reported considering sympathy strikes. Mining is tied up from Hamm to Duisberg.

NEW GASOLINE PRICE WAR LOOMS

INDEPENDENT OIL COMPANIES FIGHT FARMER CO-OP. STATIONS

(By United Press)

St. Paul, May 8.—A new gasoline price war reached large proportions today when independent oil companies began meeting the price of farmers' co-operative filling stations.

In Owatonna, Faribault, Webster, Dennison and Kenyon, gasoline is selling for 18c a gallon, according to information reaching farm bureau headquarters here.

It has been selling for 21.8 cents.

Farmers in a large number of southern Minnesota communities have begun buying gasoline in large lots and handling it co-operatively.

Twenty counties are already organized or are in the process of organization. The co-operative stations are selling to all comers at the same price and making a small profit, it was said.

Independent oil companies are meeting the prices in most communities, according to information here, but officers of the various oil companies in the Twin Cities declined to discuss the situation. They apparently feared publicity would cause the price war to spread.

"JACK THE HUGGER" REPORTED AT WORK

Turned up on North Fifth Street Last Night, Accosting Woman Aged 60

TOOK HER IN HIS ARMS

Lady Screamed For Help and Assailant Made His Getaway

"Jack the Hugger" is reported at work in the city again after several months cessation of his activitits. He turned up on North Fifth street on Wednesday nigh, accosting a lady past sixty years of age.

This lady arrived on the midnight train from Duluth to visit relatives in Brainerd. She had not notified them that she was coming, so there was no one at the train to meet her.

Finding no taxi at the depot she decided to walk and started up North Fifth street. In front of the Edward Anderson home, 315 Fifth street, a man came up from behind her, passed her and then turned around and took her in his arms, attempting to lavish his affections upon her.

The lady screamed so loud that neighbors all heard her. She broke away from her accoster and ran into the Anderson home.

Sherwood Hartley, coming from downtown, heard her screams and ran up just as the assailant made his getaway. This man is described as being rather a young person, of medium height and a little above medium weight. He wore a dark hat, pulled down over his eyes, an overcoat with the collar turned up about his face.

The police were called and arrived almost immediately on the scene, but could find no trace of the man in question.

The happy couple left this afternoon for a short honeymoon to Duluth, after which they will make their home in Brainerd.

The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of gray crepe delaine and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The bridesmaid was also attired in gray, and carried pink carnations.

Henry Albertson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Albertson of South Long Lake, prosperous farmers, and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Torkel Thompson, also a prosperous farmer of South Long Lake.

A raw amateur of an extra man, right off the ranch, caught his Roman spear in a very important rope on a set and pullet the set down with a crash that rivalled "The Last Days of Pompeii," which is what the company was filming. This same extra man, not used to camera technique, wandered onto everyone's set in front of cameras and ruined fine emotional scenes—these are some of the humorous experiences which are told in the story.

Mae Marsh in Screen Version of "Daddies"

"Daddies," you have an opportunity to see one of the best screen offerings of the season. This is a picturization of the David Belasco stage success that had such a long and successful run in the New York and Chicago theatres. It is a delightful comedy drama, redolent with patnos and heart appeal, prezented by a splendid cast. It is another of the Warner Brothers Screen Classics.

In the cast of "Daddies" you will see such well-known screen favorites as Mae Marsh, Harry Myers, Claire Adams, Craufurd Kent, Claude Gillingwater, Millie Davenport and others.

Bachelor life, single blessedness, cal it what you will, furnishes the motive power for "Daddies." It is the story of five Yale men who, while yet in college, form a bachelor's club. Eac hagrees not to marry unless he first pays a five thousand dollar resignation fee to the club. The story opens with the annual club banquet. At the New Park last time tonight.

"Vanity Fair" at Lyceum

Celestial Harmony

"The verra best music I ever heard whateffer was doon at Jamie MacJauchlan's. There was fifteen o' us pipers in the wee back parlor, all playin' different chunes. Search for Deadly Germs Baring Is Accused Of Feeding Wife Reveals Vial in Home and Golf Bag

Above is pictured Clarence O. Baring's golf bag, in which it is alleged were boxes containing various germs with which he was experimenting in his amateur laboratory on the upper floor of his home in White Plains, N. Y. The other photo shows one of the vials containing diphtheria germs. Baring has been indicted, charged with feeding his wealthy wife arsenic and diphtheria and pneumonia germs. He declares he merely wished to make her so sick that she would go to California for her health and he could then break off an affair with another woman. The authorities sought Miss Mildred E. Beam, a teacher of physical training classes in the Elizabeth, N. J., high school, to question her friendship with Baring.

Scientists say there need be no fear of the sun "dying" too quickly and of the earth getting cold. The sun's heat will last, they say, for another billion years or so.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFIES AND DARKENS HAIR

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.—Advt.

THE WHOLE STATE TO BE REPRESENTED HERE

It is no wild dream of any publicity committee that indicates that Brainerd will house a regular convention on Saturday, May 10th, "Better Sires Day." The farmers are expected to come in a steady stream exceeding anything in the history of the town's conventions. The whole Pure Bred Sire association, officers, caretakers, members will be present, for they all want to see what kind of a pure bred yearling bull is apportioned their "block." And all their neighbors will be on hand too. Every farmer of this dairy section of the state is interested in the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce experiment. It will be successful and it sets an example in whole-hearted cooperation between town and country never before tried out.

That outside papers and dairy and farm magazines are paying attention to this "Better Sires Day" in Brainerd may be noted from a letter received, and this expresses the view of the many asked to be here.

"The Farmer" Associate Editor, Berry H. Akers of St. Paul, writes: "Thank you for your letter of May 6th and the enclosed clipping from the Brainerd Daily Dispatch. We are much pleased with this publicity which you have given to 'The Farmer.' I am planning to be in Brainerd on Saturday at which time I hope I may have the pleasure of meeting all of you."

The Duluth Chamber of Commerce, through its secretary, S. Valentine Saxby, writes in part, answering the invitation to attend "Better Sires Day": "Your very interesting letter has been referred to our Agricultural Committee, who will meet Friday. There is no doubt that some of our members will accept your invitation contained in your communication.

"Mr. M. J. Thompson, of the Northeast Experimental Station, is Vice Chairman of this committee and has done a lot of work along this line."

FARMING CALLS FOR BUSINESS ABILITY

Farming is an industry which requires real business ability on the part of the farmer if he wishes to succeed. The problems of agriculture are not something separate and apart from all other industries. Agricultural problems are no different than other industrial problems.

Dean Russell, in an address before the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers' Association, voiced these significant thoughts:

"You frequently hear in connection with meetings, reference made to farmers and businessmen, as if farmers were not businessmen, as if they stood apart from what we ordinarily term as business men. To my mind that is an unfortunate mode of presentation. A manufacturer is looked upon as a business man; he is a producer of the finished product, and I see no reason why we should not also consider the manufacturer of our food products, the producer of our food, quite as much a business man as the manufacturer of any other commodity."

CANDIDATES AND PUBLICITY

A man very seldom asks for a political office just for the honor which might accrue. He wants to be elected so that he can collect the salary connected with the office to which he aspires. The shoe dealer sells shoes for the profit there is in handling the goods, and this profit assures him an income. Election to office assures the candidate a salary. The shoe dealer does not ask nor expect a newspaper to be continually giving him free space so that he might make his salary and we can see no good reason why candidates should be given any special privileges along the publicity line unless these candidates are the choice of a political party and advocate the policies which the newspaper represents. —Little Falls Transcript.

FAIR WEATHER VOTERS

There must be a lot of fair weather voters in St. Paul. Half the news sent out just before election and on election morning centered on the rain and cold temperature and how it was going to affect the vote. It is really surprising how much the weather has to do with the priceless privilege of casting the ballot.

In other countries, where people have recently all secured such a privilege, it is thought a sacred obligation. And so we think of it too, should some human agency try to interfere with the stream of ballots. But let the weather shift around ever so little, all the resolutions, the history of the ballot and the mark of progress so attained, are shot to pieces by a little rain water, a little sleet or snow, or a cold wind.

SUCH WEATHER, THESE DAYS

Rotarians at Bismarck, at their conference, had a song which carried the refrain that it wouldn't rain any more. The song was sung with such gusto that it actually quit raining and started to snow.

We hope whoever is managing the weather in this section of Minnesota will shut off the rain tap, the snow and sleet, and give us perfect weather, balmy breezes and bright sunshine for next Saturday, May 10th. In the last few days we have been served such an assortment of weather, everything except the right kind, that it has even checked the growth of our radishes and lettuce.

INDUSTRIAL DESPOT RULES

Peace today is menaced by an industrial despot, said Senator Shipstead in an address he delivered at the convention of the Women's League for Peace and Freedom. He claimed the invasion of the Ruhr was as immoral as the invasion of Belgium.

Governments are more concerned with iron mines, coal mines, railroads and oil than with morals and justice, he asserted.

EXTENSIVE RESEARCH WORK

The University of Minnesota in its research work uses a whole army of animals in a year. They include about 300 dogs, 200 cats, 600 rabbits, 600 guinea pigs.

Twelve men have filed for congress in our sixth district. Two from our vicinity are O. J. Bouma, of Brainerd, and Dr. Albert C. Bosel, of Crosby, both Farmer-Labor candidates.

OTHER PEOPLES' OPINIONS

Claims Farmer Will Not Foot the Bill

Editor Brainerd Dispatch,
Brainerd, Minnesota.

Dear Sir:

I was very much interested in an editorial that appeared in the Brainerd Daily Dispatch recently commenting on proposed increase pay for postal workers. After reading the editorial one is left with the impression that it will be necessary to raise the parcel post rates 300 per cent and that the farmer will be required to pay about all of the increase. As a matter of fact it has not even been suggested that the parcel post rates be raised 300 per cent or anywhere near that figure. And as there are eight parcels mailed from the cities for every one mailed from the country you can readily see that the farmer does not foot the entire bill.

The bill that is before the postoffice committee of both houses of Congress calls for an additional $60,000,000 for wages but does not call for any increase in postage rates.

In closing I will quote the Hon. Clyde Kelly, congressman from Pennsylvania: "Mr. chairman, I think I have shown beyond a question that the socalled postal deficits during the past 10 years have been due solely to a policy of keeping postage rates stationary or reducing them during a period of rapidly mounting costs. Thus far the postal workers have taken all burdens upon their shoulders and carried them. They have never compained of the extra work, for they stand for service first, last and all the time. But while doing this work with marvelous energy and efficiency they have a right at the very least to compense tion which will enable them to provide the necessaries of life for themselves and their families."

Very respectfully,
GEO. B. FALCONER,
President Minnesota Federation of Postoffice Clerks.

State of Minnesota, County of Ramsey, in District Court, Fourth Judicial District.
Charles Skooglun, Plaintiff.

Such Receiver shall have full power and authority to prosecute and defend in the name of the defendant corporation, or otherwise, all claims or suits now pending or hereafter instituted or started.

That said Receiver be and hereby is granted three months from the date hereof, and said time is hereby declared to be a reasonable time, within which said Receiver may elect to accept or renounce contracts of the defendant corporation.

That all creditors of said defendant corporation shall present their claims against said receivership estate by filing a verified copy of their claims in a form to be prepared and used by the Receiver with the Receiver. Said claims shall be so filed on or before six months from the date hereof and the said Receiver shall give notice of this portion of this order to all creditors by mailing a portion of this order to each creditor, addressed to him at his address as the same appears upon the books of the defendant corporation, within ten (10) days from the date hereof, and by publishing a copy of this order in the Brainerd Daily Dispatch, a legal newspaper pulbished in the City of Brainerd, Minnesota, once each week for three successive weeks.

THE WHOLE STATE TO BE REPRESENTED HERE

It is no wild dream of any publicity committee that indicates that Brainerd will house a regular convention on Saturday, May 10th, "Better Sires Day." The farmers are expected to come in a steady stream exceeding anything in the history of the town's conventions. The whole Pure Bred Sire association, officers, caretakers, members will be present, for they all want to see what kind of a pure bred yearling bull is apportioned their "block." And all their neighbors will be on hand too. Every farmer of this dairy section of the state is interested in the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce experiment. It will be successful and it sets an example in whole-hearted cooperation between town and country never before tried out.

POULTRY

FEEDING BABY CHICKS IS IMPORTANT WORK

Feeding the baby chick is important because of the fact that a good start means good growth, early maturity, and healthy stock, says D. H. Hall, extension poultry specialist at Clemson college, who suggests below when, how, and what to feed the young chicks.

A good many people make a mistake by feeding the baby chicks too early after they are hatched. The chicks can go without food for at least 48 hours after they are hatched. During this period they are allowed time to absorb the yolk material left in their bodies and to put their bodies into condition for receiving other food.

The first food that should be given a baby chick is buttermilk, as it is a good protein and also contains much lactic acid. The lactic acid forms an unfavorable medium for the development of white diarrhea. White diarrhea is one of the most dreaded diseases of baby chicks, and to guard against this disease buttermilk should be kept before the baby chicks at all times.

After the baby chicks have had a drink of buttermilk, the next feed should be given as a soft feed. Hard-boiled infertile eggs mixed with an equal part of cornmeal is a mighty good starter. The eggs furnish protein and the cornmeal furnishes heat and energy. When the eggs cannot be obtained, it is a good idea to start the baby chicks off on one-half pound of meat meal mixed with five pounds of cornmeal, which can be fed damp with buttermilk.

After being fed either of the above mixtures for one week the chicks should be gradually weaned off to the regular mashes and scratch feeds. A good scratch feed consists of the following:

1 part pinhead oats
2 parts cracked wheat
4 parts cracked corn

The above should be fed as a scratch feed and the baby chicks allowed to scratch in the litter for it. The dry mash should contain the following parts:

40 pounds cornmeal
20 pounds wheat middlings
10 pounds wheat bran
10 pounds finely ground oats
15 pounds meat scraps
5 pounds peanut meal or soy bean meal

The above scratch and mash feeds can be fed to the baby chicks until they are three months old. After the chicks are three months old they can be placed on the regular scratch feed and mash.

Leg Weakness in Chicks From Lack of Vitamins

Feeding is a factor in prevention of poultry disease. A ration should be fed that contains not only the proper amount of fat, carbohydrates, and proteins, but also the essential vitamins. Vitamins are best supplied by green feed. Green feed should be given to the birds daily. A disease known as nutritional disease results from lack of the proper vitamins, but more important than this is the danger of lowering the resistance of the fowls and thus making them susceptible to more serious diseases, says W. R. Hinshaw, instructor in bacteriology, Kansas State Agricultural college.

Young chicks are especially susceptible to the deficiency disease caused by lack of vitamin D. Weak legs result from the lack of this vitamin, and this can be corrected by giving small quantities of cod liver oil. Direct sunlight has the same effect as cod liver oil in correcting this condition, so that sunlight may be considered a factor in health feeding. When direct sunlight is available nutritional rickets or weak legs can be prevented if the chicks are allowed to get plenty of it, according to Mr. Hinshaw.

Poultry Notes

• • •

If the turkey hen wants to wean the brood early, there's little use to interfere by cooping them together. In such a case the hen is likely to kill or maim part or all of the brood.

• • •

In getting the machine ready for the eggs, be sure that the incubator is running evenly and maintaining a uniform temperature. The machine should be run for several days before the eggs are placed in it.

• • •

Do not brood too many chicks in one flock, because it does not pay to raise too many chicks under one stove. If a great number is to be brooded it will be cheaper in the end to buy another stove.

Old Paris Attributed Big Floods to Its Sins

Paris' problem of how to fight the floods goes back to the remote days when, a fortified camp on a river island, the Lutetia of Caesar, it looked out on a panorama of marsh and forest.

It is not surprising to find that its early inhabitants attributed its flood disasters not to its geographical position but to its sins, and so in the inundations that wrought terrible havoc in the first half of the Eighth century the favorite remedy was a religious procession with the relics of St. Genevieve, a form of intercession against divine wrath which has been frequently practiced in the less enlightened Latin countries much nearer our own times. But once at least the floods were accepted as an intervention of Providence. In 886 the Seine rose when the Normans were besieging Paris, many of them were drowned and they had forthwith to raise the siege. "May the Seine water give you new wigs—and better combed," was the taunt which the monkish chronicler poet Abbo afterward addressed to the foiled warriors.

Much as Paris has suffered in modern floods—the damage sustained in these visitations has been trifling compared with that inflicted by the invading waters in 1296, when stone bridges were swept away, public buildings crumbled, and, as an old chronicler says, "men went in boats over the wall of the king's garden," over a great area the upper stories of the houses rose out of a vast lake. The then larger Paris suffered even more in the flood of 1658. Bridges were carried away, streets became running streams, houses collapsed in ruin and many people were drowned. The inhabitants seem to have taken these troubles with an amazing philosophy. The flood last mentioned came at the time of the carnival, which was held despite the disaster. A contemporary diarist jocosely remarks that there would have been more masks had it not been for the conduct of Mme. la Seine. It was after the 1658 flood that the first attempts were made to bridle Mme. la Seine's caprices. Some canals were cut. But two and a half centuries later madam is still out of hand.—Manchester Guardian.

"Diamond Lake"

Nature, working deep beneath the surface of the earth under great pressure, has made our familiar transparent diamonds from carbon. By another method of nature, dazzling imitation diamonds have been formed in limestone regions. Underground waters trickling through the earth in limestone areas dissolve out lime and later deposit it as crystals of calcium carbonate and calcium sulphate in subterranean caverns. The crystals of calcium carbonate are the more brilliant and, if free from contamination by other minerals in solution, are transparent or pure white. Such crystals, when illuminated by artificial light, will dazzle the eye as other diamonds do in the sunlight. The most beautiful example of these diamonds of lime is found in the "diamond lake" in the Endless caverns at New Market, Va. The islands and shores of this miniature lake, 200 feet below the surface, gleam with the sparkle of millions of diamonds of lime when a white light is thrown on them.

Picking Them

A commercial traveler visiting a Glasgow warehouse made a bet with the manager that he would pick out all the married men among the employees.

Accordingly he stationed himself at the door as they returned from dinner, and mentioned all those whom he believed to be married. In almost every case he was right.

"How do you do it?" asked the manager.

"Oh, it's quite simple," said the traveler. "The married men wipe their feet on the mat; the single ones don't."

Hat Sizes

"Yes, ma'am; what size does he wear?"

"What size is that?" asked the astonished hatter. "I'm afraid we don't stock it."

"Well," snapped the woman, "the last one he had was six-seven-eights, and he wants a size bigger. I suppose that will be nine-ten-elevens, won't it?"

Where the Worst Was Best

A young magazine editor of New York took a trip to California and happened in upon Hollywood. He was invited to a motion-picture party and decided to put off his usual reserve and diffidence and enter fully into the spirit of the occasion. He devoted his attention throughout the evening to a young film actress.

He did his best, but suddenly, as he was playing the role to the limit of his capacity, the young woman broke down and wept.

The editor asked the cause of her distress, and with tears in her eyes she looked up and said: "I've been here almost a year now and you're the first fellow that's acted to me like a gentleman."—Heywood Broun in the New York World.

POULTRY

FEEDING BABY CHICKS IS IMPORTANT WORK

Feeding the baby chick is important because of the fact that a good start means good growth, early maturity, and healthy stock, says D. H. Hall, extension poultry specialist at Clemson college, who suggests below when, how, and what to feed the young chicks.

A good many people make a mistake by feeding the baby chicks too early after they are hatched. The chicks can go without food for at least 48 hours after they are hatched. During this period they are allowed time to absorb the yolk material left in their bodies and to put their bodies into condition for receiving other food.

The first food that should be given a baby chick is buttermilk, as it is a good protein and also contains much lactic acid. The lactic acid forms an unfavorable medium for the development of white diarrhea. White diarrhea is one of the most dreaded diseases of baby chicks, and to guard against this disease buttermilk should be kept before the baby chicks at all times.

After the baby chicks have had a drink of buttermilk, the next feed should be given as a soft feed. Hard-boiled infertile eggs mixed with an equal part of cornmeal is a mighty good starter. The eggs furnish protein and the cornmeal furnishes heat and energy. When the eggs cannot be obtained, it is a good idea to start the baby chicks off on one-half pound of meat meal mixed with five pounds of cornmeal, which can be fed damp with buttermilk.

After being fed either of the above mixtures for one week the chicks should be gradually weaned off to the regular mashes and scratch feeds. A good scratch feed consists of the following:

1 part pinhead oats
2 parts cracked wheat
4 parts cracked corn

The above should be fed as a scratch feed and the baby chicks allowed to scratch in the litter for it. The dry mash should contain the following parts:

40 pounds cornmeal
20 pounds wheat middlings
10 pounds wheat bran
10 pounds finely ground oats
15 pounds meat scraps
5 pounds peanut meal or soy bean meal

The above scratch and mash feeds can be fed to the baby chicks until they are three months old. After the chicks are three months old they can be placed on the regular scratch feed and mash.

Leg Weakness in Chicks From Lack of Vitamins

Feeding is a factor in prevention of poultry disease. A ration should be fed that contains not only the proper amount of fat, carbohydrates, and proteins, but also the essential vitamins. Vitamins are best supplied by green feed. Green feed should be given to the birds daily. A disease known as nutritional disease results from lack of the proper vitamins, but more important than this is the danger of lowering the resistance of the fowls and thus making them susceptible to more serious diseases, says W. R. Hinshaw, instructor in bacteriology, Kansas State Agricultural college.

Young chicks are especially susceptible to the deficiency disease caused by lack of vitamin D. Weak legs result from the lack of this vitamin, and this can be corrected by giving small quantities of cod liver oil. Direct sunlight has the same effect as cod liver oil in correcting this condition, so that sunlight may be considered a factor in health feeding. When direct sunlight is available nutritional rickets or weak legs can be prevented if the chicks are allowed to get plenty of it, according to Mr. Hinshaw.

Poultry Notes

* * *

If the turkey hen wants to wean the brood early, there's little use to interfere by cooping them together. In such a case the hen is likely to kill or maim part or all of the brood.

* * *

In getting the machine ready for the eggs, be sure that the incubator is running evenly and maintaining a uniform temperature. The machine should be run for several days before the eggs are placed in it.

* * *

Do not brood too many chicks in one flock, because it does not pay to raise too many chicks under one stove. If a great number is to be brooded it will be cheaper in the end to buy another stove.

* * *

Give a flying start to little chicks by feeding them chick grit and sour milk or buttermilk when they are first hatched.

* * *

Incubators should be of good construction and run where drafts, sudden temperature changes and direct sunlight cannot reach them.

* * *

Baby chicks hatched out during April must receive the best kind of food to keep them growing, for it will take a little pushing to mature them before winter.

At Open Car Cost

All Closed Car Comforts, Utility and Distinction

Why buy an open car? High cost for closed car comforts is no longer a question. The Coach—exclusive to Hudson and Essex—gives every closed car advantage, at almost open car cost. No other car shares its position.

It creates the dominant car issue of the year. Mark how rapidly the Coach is superseding open cars. Sales exceed 3000 a week. It is the largest selling six-cylinder closed car in the world.

Buyers must consider any purchase in the light of this overwhelming trend. As the wanted car the Coach maintains high resale value, against the waning desirability of open cars.

Hudson and Essex—inventors and exclusive producers of "Closed Car Comforts at Open Car Cost"—are responsible for this issue. In two and a half years, and in the hands of more than 135,000 owners, the coach has proved a staunchness and serviceability never before associated with a closed car. It gives every utility you can get in any closed car. All concede unsurpassed chassis reliability. The price removes it from all competition.

You today want "the car for everyone."

Builders Unable to Make Wind Scapegoat

The wind that accommodatingly comes in at the kitchen window on a summer morning and into the library or across the front porch on a summer evening, when the architect has given due consideration to orientation factors in certain locations, becomes a veritable demon when it topples a brick wall or a billboard onto a pedestrian. And, demon though it is, it is designated an "act of God" in law if the wind were hanging up a record run. This circumstance opens the way to a fertile field of excuses in court cases. The weather bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture was recently called upon to furnish evidence in a court case concerning a wall which went up in the afternoon and down at night; and in the lack of a justifiable windstorm, cross-examiners developed some embarrassing facts about the manner of the wall's construction.

Simple Hairdressing

While one or two ornamental pins may be stuck into the hair of the Chinese or Japanese woman, they are at best only added attractions, and all the work of keeping the complicated coil and elaborate structure firmly in place is done by one pin and one pin only, the Detroit News says.

Oil of camellia, cactus, or some other perfumed lubricant is applied freely while the hair is in process of being combed. This combing, as well as the final arranging, is hardly ever done by the well-born woman herself, but by her waiting maid. The hair is brought to a perfection of black satiny gloss and smoothness, in which a stiffening of gum plays no small part. It is then bound tightly close to the head with a silk cord, coiled, and the ends tied with silk. It is then twisted into the desired knot and the famous single pin deftly slipped through the center, maintaining the whole. No matter how thick and heavy the tresses may be, the one spoonshaped "pin" does the trick.

Capital's Government

The government of the Federal City (as President Washington called it until the commissioners gave it his name in 1791) has been since 1874 vested in a commission of three officers, appointed by the president and the senate. They have charge of all municipal and administrative affairs, police, street improvements and schools. Congress is the sole legislature of the city and district, the citizens having no suffrage. Since the government owns nearly half the property in the district, and the city exists largely for the benefit of the officers—legislative, executive and judicial—it has been settled by act of congress that the government pays half the annual expenses of the city government, the other being taxed upon the property of the citizens.—Kansas City Star.

Official Headpiece

"Halt, there!" commanded Constable Sam T. Slackputter, the well-known guardian of the peace and dignity of Petunia. "Consider yourself under arrest for exceeding the speed limit!"

"Wha-at!" returned the offending motorist. "How do you know how fast I was going? You didn't even glance at your watch?"

"I don't need to. If I see you coming and turn my head away just as you pass the Methodist church corner, and then turn it back and you've reached the hay scales, I know you're exceeding the limit. You may say I can't tell time by my head, but I've been using it for forty-nine years now, and know just about what it can do."—Kansas City Star.

New Street-Car Idea

Hope appeared on the horizon of the strap hanger the other day in Detroit in the form of a new type of street car. This car, or rather three-in-one car train, is designed to give greater seating capacity for the same street space than the usual type of cars. It consists of three connecting cars on four sets of wheels and seats 140 people. The street railway company also wins, as the three-in-one train weighs less and is cheaper to run than three ordinary type cars.

Liner Saves ...

The Cunard liner Laconia is the first British liner to be equipped with a wonderful new invention, by means of which ships of the future will be able to travel hundreds of miles, unaided by a helmsman, without deviating from their intended course. The gyro pilot is controlled by the gyro compass. This compass passes all alterations of the ship's head to other compasses, working in conjunction with the latest wireless direction finders on the bridge and other parts of the ship. One of these repeater compasses is mounted on the gyro pilot, and immediately the ship's head changes its direction the information is passed to an electric motor, which turns the steering wheel the requisite amount to bring the ship back to her course.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HOBOKEN GREEK HOPES TO CIRCUMNAVIGATE GLOBE IN LITTLE 25 FOOT BOAT

Dimitrios Sigelakis, who works in a restaurant in Hoboken, N. J., saved every spare nickle until he had $2,000. With his savings he built himself a 25 foot boat in which he hopes to sail June 10, bound on a trip around the world. He expects to reach Greece in 80 days and after a short visit in his native country will start on the return trip to Hoboken via the Suez and Panama Canals.

Indian Tribe Said to Use "Language" of Birds

A tribe of Indians whose members communicate among themselves only by whistling, and who can talk to birds in the same manner, has been found in the Siskiyou mountains in northern California. The discovery was reported to A. L. Kroeber, curator of anthropological museum of the University of California, by J. R. Saxon of the United States forest service.

Saxon said that for weeks forest rangers in the remote part of the Siskiyous had heard many uncanny whistlings over the service wires that stretch from station to station through the mountains. He went to investigate. He said the Indians conveyed to him that they had seen forest rangers using this instrument and had themselves experimented with it in their whistling language. This explained the mysterious sounds.

Saxon believes that the isolated clan of "whistling people" is an obscure offshoot of the Karok tribe of Klamath Falls Indians, says the Detroit News. Professor Kroeber says the Karoks are an unusually intelligent and industrious tribe numbering about 2,000. At a whistled command birds would flutter from the trees to a clearing to eat food scattered there by the women, according to Saxon's narrative. He described the men as shy, adding the women were like deer. "At the sound of my voice," he explained, "the women fled into the canyons."

Boy Prisoner's Plea Ingenious, at Least

A youth in the Indiana state prison recently sent a plea to the state board of pardons, in which he said:

"I am only a boy of seventeen and don't think I ought to be required to live up to the laws that I never had opportunity to learn what they were in school and it seems as though about nine-tenths of the lawyers of Indiana do not understand them, either."

The boy's letter amused more than it impressed, because the law he was convicted of violating was the law against stealing automobiles.

Under ordinary conditions the youth would be in the Indiana state reformatory, and not in the state prison, where more hardened and older convicts are sent, but the new reformatory is not yet sufficiently completed to house many more than about half of its intended capacity of 1,250 prisoners.—Indianapolis News.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT, IS FIERY, ITCHY OR ROUGH, USE SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowles' Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.—Adt

Fur Farms in Canada

Fur farming has shown a great increase in Canada during the last ten years that furs have been popular summer and winter. There are 1,009 farms devoted to breeding and raising fur-bearing animals, and of these 960 are devoted to foxes, seventeen to racoon, thirteen to mink and one to marten. The 21,433 silver foxes taken in the 1923 census of these farms are valued at $5,372,262. As Canada became settled the wild animals retreated farther into the north and the farms sprang up with the demand from fur manufacturers.

Benjamin J. Hawley, an early resident of Brainerd, passed away on Thursday morning at a local hospital, aged 57 years, death being caused by cancer.

Mr. Hawley lived in the city many years ago. He moved away and resided elsewhere for thirty years, returning to Brainerd a year ago.

He is survived by his wife and seven children. One child preceded him in death. The living are William of Seattle; Harold, Howard and Laverne, of Brainerd; Grace and Florence of Minneapolis. A sister-in-law, Mrs. Paul Zwicky, a neice, Miss Mildred Hawley, and a nephew, Carl Hawley, live in Minneapolis.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed, but will be announced in Friday's Dispatch.

"BUTTERFLY KIDDIES" COMING

Organization of Six Children to Play Six Day Engagement at New Park, Starting Saturday

The Butterfly Kiddies, an organization of eleven children, will play a six days' engagement at the New Park theatre beginning Saturday of this week. This big vaudeville act is to be shown in conjunction with a special picture program at regular prices—with an entire change of program Tuesday.

This famous juvenile organization has toured the entire United States and has received a capacity business in every town for the entire length of their stay.

These children have just returned from a western trip where they not only were successful in the theatre, but learned much about the country as they made trips to everything of interest. While they were in Salt Lake City their entire program was broadcasted by radio.

No theatrical organization in the world travels with the equipment of the Butterfly Kiddies, for the company carries its own nurse, its own school teacher, and its own physical training director, and all of them work every day with the children.

In the first place, the Butterfly Kiddies are not allowed to get out of bed until ten o'clock in the morning.

From ten to eleven is the breakfast hour but at eleven o'clock the school bell rings, or it would ring if they had a school bell. In a room in a hotel or in the public schools when the company is playing a week stand, the children attend their classes. While in Brainerd classes will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

From eleven until three o'clock the kiddies study, but this period is broken up by their physical training work. At three o'clock it is usually time for the matinee.

Each child is paid two dollars per week, the rest of the salary going to the parents in Detroit. Of these two dollars one must go into the bank and the rest is for spending money. For excellent grades in their school work they are given a bonus weekly and for poor work they are fined.

"The greatest punishment we can threaten," the director said, "is to tell them we are going to send them home. That settles everything."

CITY SCHOOL NURSE

Submits Report at Nurse Supervising Committee Meeting on Monday

The nurse supervising committee met Monday, May 5th, and the following report was submitted by the city and school nurse.

Bedside care was given 28 patients during April, 102 calls were made on school children, preschool children and babies. Twenty-five miscellaneous calls were made.

The communicable diseases found were diphtheria 1, whooping cough 6, mumps 4, conjunctivitis 24, chickenpox 5, impetigo 3, measles 3. Five children were taken to their physicians, two to the clinic and one to the hospital.

Five classes in maternal and infant hygiene were held and six Little Mothers classes.

Sixty-two school visits were made and 158 children inspected individually, 49 took notices home to their parents telling them of some physical defect. Twenty-nine defects have been corrected.

Thirty underweight children have been drinking milk in the middle of the morning at the Lincoln school since January. Eight of these children are up to weight and practically all are gaining.

No outstanding advance has been made in the city and school health program greater than this, undertaken by the Lincoln Parent Teacher association in arranging for milk for the underweight children. What advance is made in Brainerd in the future will depend on committees of Parent-Teachers' associations or other volunteer groups, in the way of observing Child Health Day, arranging for school lunches or milk, prizes for health essays or posters taking subscriptions for health magazines, etc.

It was decided by the committee to have the lettering on the health car put on in red in order to make it more easily distinguished from the Child Welfare car which is lettered with gold.

BARRING TILDEN CAUSES STORM IN TENNIS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, May 8.—Bill Tilden's resignation from the Davis Cup Tennis squad and its acceptance by the United States Lawn Tennis Association places the American team in serious danger of losing one of the world's most coveted sport trophies.

While Tilden's friends maintain that without him the American cup defending team cannot win against the formidable opposition that is sure to be represented in the survivor of the preliminary rounds, the supporters of the association might take the position that his withdrawal only means the removal of a handicap that challenging nations have been feeling they could not carry.

Just before the challenge round next fall, when the identity and form of the challenging team has been established, it will be more logical to discuss America's chances of retaining the cup than it would be to draw conclusions at this early date.

But, certainly, it is safe to say now that the American team, without a sure two-point winner, will not be as strong as it would have been with Tilden. The big American champion is, by general admission, the greatest player in the world, and the American team could safely chalk up a victory in two singles matches before Tilden took the courts, regardless of the competitor he was drawn against.

Bill Johnston, Dick Williams, Vinnie Richards and Watson Washburn will have to carry the burden of defense, and their shoulders are none too broad for the load. Johnston is not physically qualified to stand up under the strain of two hard singles matches, and Williams is such an in-and-outer that he is not a sure bet in even one match.

Vinnie Richards isn't sure of getting a call to start in more than one match. Perhaps he may take it into his head to withdraw from the team and join Tilden in carrying the fight against the association on the player-writer issue.

The atmosphere around New York is very much charged with the influence of the association, and perhaps it was only natural that an observer should gain the impression here that the association had won a popular decision in deciding to stick to its ground and insist that Tilden would be a professional next year if he does not stop writing as a profession.

During the recent Pennsylvania relay carnival in Philadelphia, however, it was learned in discussion with prominent sportsmen from the south, middle-west and far-west that a very pronounced feeling of protest against the official attack on Tilden has developed since the association took off its glove and reached for the club.

One prominent sportsman, a wealthy football, polo, tennis and athletic follower, expressed the opinion that Tilden will have mustered enough public support by the end of this year to force the association to back down and make an exception of the anti-writing rule in his case.

"Chinch-Bug Cholera" Great Benefit to Man

In the Mississippi valley there is a disease known as "chinch-bug cholera." It is known in other parts of the country also, but perhaps not so well as there. This is one of the diseases that benefits man, for it attacks only insects that are injurious to his crops. The disease is caused by a parasitic fungus, known scientifically as Sporotrichum globuliferum, and its host is the dreaded destroyer of corn and wheat, the chinch-bug.

It is of great interest and importance that this fungus may be cultivated artifically in the laboratory. It thrives on culture media of different kinds, and may be sent out to farmers in badly infected areas. The method followed is to distribute the bodies of infected insects in the fields, either dead or alive. The disease is then contracted by the healthy bugs and soon spreads over the infected locality, helping to exterminate the pest, if not eliminating it altogether.

Many kinds of insects are subject to these fungus attacks, but it appears to follow that they thrive well only in moist weather. The chinch-bug fungus is probably the only one that has been seriously experimented upon and turned to the use of man, but there is no doubt at all that others might be brought under control, and eventually become of enormous benefit to the human race.

Our common houseflies are subject to a fungus cholera due to the attack of the species Empusa muscae, which slays them in large numbers in the late summer. Swollen flies are often seen at this time of the year clinging to the walls of kitchens or other greatly frequented places. About the dead or dying insects will be seen a ring of white mold, due to the spores of the plant which have been ejected at maturity. One fly catches it from another, or from free spores in the air, and the disease is really very beneficial as far as man is concerned, in reducing the number of flies.—Nature Magazine.

Heroism, Man's Heritage

If there be mute, inglorious Miltons aplenty in the world, there are many more heroes going about unsuspected and undiscovered until occasion calls upon them to act and display their courage and resource.

Probably most of the undisclosed heroes of everyday life are quite as unconscious as their associates of their own capacity for gallantry and self sacrifice until time and opportunity summon them to the herold role.

If it be safer to wait until a man is dead before saying he has known only happiness in life, it is just as prudent not to judge others by their ways under ordinary circumstances. It is the glory of the race that it can rise to splendid heights upon demand. Many an insignificant looking person is a hero disguised by appearance.

Give scorn to no man because he looks like a shrimp and is modestly self-effacing. Tomorrow you may read that the "shrimp" died that some one, a stranger to him, might live. Argue though you may, that he acted under impulse, the spirit of heroism must have been in him or he would not have acted at all. The time, the occasion demanded a man, and the man responded.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Free Smoke

A wily old Scot at one time had occasion for a long railroad journey. Scarcely had he become comfortably settled in a corner of the smoker when a stranger entered and seated himself by his side. For a time there was silence between them, while from all sides clouds of tobacco smoke rose into the already heavily-laden atmosphere.

The stranger, seeing a cigar in the old man's pocket, turned to him and said:

"My man, why don't you smoke your cigar?"

The old fellow looked about cautiously before replying.

"Hush, man!" he whispered. "Can ye nae see I'm getting all this smoke free?"—From Everybody's Magazine.

Moving Mountains

Some college girls were giving a show. They wanted no help from the men. Faith had volunteered to act as a scene shifter. The college president dropped in at a rehearsal and it made him smile to hear the following conversation:

"Faith! Faith!"

"Yes?"

"Come over here, please. I want you to move these mountains."—From Everybody's Magazine.

"Foine dog ye have," said the Irishman. "What is it?"

Wandering Waistline

"When I left Paris," said an actress to a reporter, "all the fashion experts were squabbling over one question. It was whether the 1924 waistline should be just above or just below the knee."

The Easier the Harder

"I hate to play against a hard loser."

"I dunno. It's a darn sight better than playing against an easy winner."—Flamingo.

BARRING TILDEN CAUSES STORM IN TENNIS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, May 8.—Bill Tilden's resignation from the Davis Cup Tennis squad and its acceptance by the United States Lawn Tennis Association places the American team in serious danger of losing one of the world's most coveted sport trophies.

While Tilden's friends maintain that without him the American cup defending team cannot win against the formidable opposition that is sure to be represented in the survivor of the preliminary rounds, the supporters of the association might take the position that his withdrawal only means the removal of a handicap that challenging nations have been feeling they could not carry.

Just before the challenge round next fall, when the identity and form of the challenging team has been established, it will be more logical to discuss America's chances of retaining the cup than it would be to draw conclusions at this early date.

But, certainly, it is safe to say now that the American team, without a sure two-point winner, will not be as strong as it would have been with Tilden. The big American champion is, by general admission, the greatest player in the world, and the American team could safely chalk up a victory in two singles matches before Tilden took the courts, regardless of the competitor he was drawn against.

Bill Johnston, Dick Williams, Vinnie Richards and Watson Washburn will have to carry the burden of defense, and their shoulders are none too broad for the load. Johnston is not physically qualified to stand up under the strain of two hard singles matches, and Williams is such an in-and-outer that he is not a sure bet in even one match.

Vinnie Richards isn't sure of getting a call to start in more than one match. Perhaps he may take it into his head to withdraw from the team and join Tilden in carrying the fight against the association on the player-writer issue.

The atmosphere around New York is very much charged with the influence of the association, and perhaps it was only natural that an observer should gain the impression here that the association had won a popular decision in deciding to stick to its ground and insist that Tilden would be a professional next year if he does not stop writing as a profession.

During the recent Pennsylvania relay carnival in Philadelphia, however, it was learned in discussion with prominent sportsmen from the south, middle-west and far-west that a very pronounced feeling of protest against the official attack on Tilden has developed since the association took off its glove and reached for the club.

One prominent sportsman, a wealthy football, polo, tennis and athletic follower, expressed the opinion that Tilden will have mustered enough public support by the end of this year to force the association to back down and make an exception of the anti-writing rule in his case.
